Foreword

Believing that a year-book should, as far as possible, represent a year's activities, the 1943 Artemisia staff has attempted to attain that goal. Marred by the fact that certain alterations had to take place when the Enlisted Reserve Corps, the Army Air Corps, and the Navy Air Corps left a school much depleted of men, and not being able to overlook the fact that 500 air corps cadets were proudly taking over the campus with their "Army Air Corps" song, we bring to you Nevada's fortieth volume, much affected by the war.

Hail! Proud Nevada!

September found Nevada lazy and green after vacation. War had not yet touched campus serenity. The quiet waters of Manzanita still reflected cherry blossoms and willow trees, but the tram was soon to reverberate with the tramp of cadets. . . . Spring found us saying goodbye to old friends, but always wishing that they would soon be back to sing again

The University

Confronted by the problems of war, the academic side of a university career took on many new aspects to the students who enrolled at the University of Nevada last fall. When the spring semester rolled around, we discovered that we were to share our class rooms and professors with five hundred United States Army pre-flight cadets. Many special war courses were added to the curricula.

President's Message

The University of Nevada has girded itself for war, and has mobilized all its resources for ultimate victory. Approximately 1300 former students are serving in the armed forces, and twelve have rendered the full measure of devotion to the cause for which free men fight. . . . A program of intense instruction for several hundred pre-flight cadets is under way, covering classes in eleven different subjects and requiring more than forty teachers. Cadets are reporting for twenty-five to thirty hours a week in such subjects as history, geography, mathematics, physics, English, medical aid, physical education and military drill. . . . Trainees are housed in Lincoln and Manzanita Halls and the new gymnasium. Mess is served in the dining hall, where much new equipment has been installed. Infirmary service has also been enlarged to care for the needs of the trainees. . . . Pre-flight cadets are trained under a system of strict discipline. Reveille sounds at 6 a.m., and breakfast is at 7. Some may be found working in laboratory classes as late as 9:45 p.m. Lights are out and the men in bed at 10 p.m. About the only surcease comes on weekends when students can forget study and classwork. . . . While conducting courses for the pre-cadets, instruction in academic subjects is being continued for regular students. Standards of work by the instructional staff have remained high, and the scholarship of the students is being maintained. . . . In addition, a training course sponsored by the State Department of Vocational Education and the University machine shops is being given five nights a week for non-University men and women who are training to go into shipyards or industrial plants. A course in Engineering Science Management War Training is also being given. Defense bonds having a value of $236,511.50 have been sold through the comptroller's office since January, 1942, showing the University is truly aiding in the war effort. . . . The people of this battle-born State, as well as our staff, have a real sense of satisfaction and pride in the promptitude and success with which the necessary adjustments and requirements of the Army authorities have been met. Our facilities are placed at the disposal of the nation. At this time when our country is passing through its greatest crisis the motivating purpose which has governed the thought and labor of each one has been that so well expressed on our State Seal — "All for Our Country."

Registration

Biggest job confronting the Board of Regents during the year, was turning Nevada into a pre-flight training school, which was difficult in view of priorities. . . . Plans were made for a summer session, while Paul Sirkegian was elected to replace Frank Williams as a member of the board.

Deans are People . . .

LUCILLE B. BENSON

Dean Benson spends her leisure time in weaving and reading good books. She loves to travel by automobile, taking her time, and not having to be any place at any certain time.

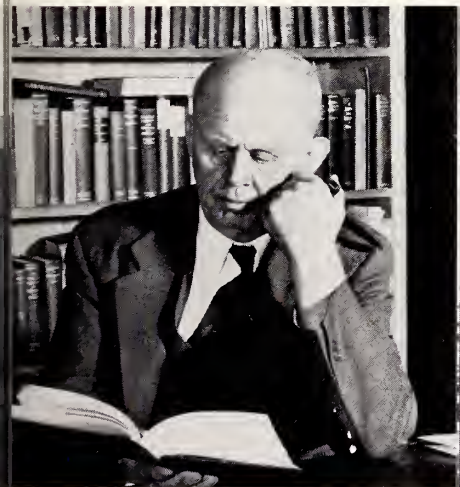

STANLEY PALMER

An unusual and interesting hobby is Dean Palmer's of photographing railroad equipment. His collection of pictures covers a period of forty years. He is also a very active member of the Masonic Lodge.

ROBERT STEWART

One of Dean Stewart's main interests is the farm labor problem. This is a vital matter with him, because a large olive crop, which must be harvested, is at stake. His granddaughter is tops with him.

RUEBEN C. THOMPSON

Hunting, fishing, and gardening are Dean Thompson's pet diversions, and a football game wouldn't be a game without the dean there to measure the gains. He finds his greatest pleasure, however with his family.

FREDERICK W. TRANER

Landscaping his beautiful home at Lake Tahoe occupies a great deal of Dean Traner's summer time, but he cherishes most the hours he spends with his family and grandchildren.

FREDERICK WOOD

Dean Wood likes nothing better than to don his old clothes and head straight for the old fishing hole, or for a day of hunting in the mountains.

Arts and Science

Arts and Science, the college with the largest enrollment on the Hill, felt the effects of war this semester. A majority of the men enrolled in its various departments were called by Uncle

Arts And Science Leads The War

"Science leads the war" is a statement that has often been made and which is certainly true as far as the University of Nevada campus is concerned, as all fields of science on the campus can be identified with some phase or other of war work. . . . The place that such sciences as chemistry and physics play in the war is readily discernible. Chemicals are one of the outstanding influences in war, and we need men and women who are properly and well trained in that field to aid in the war effort. The importance of this branch of science is fully recognized by the United States government, and a great deal of importance is given to the chemical warfare divisions. . . . Many practical problems have been dealt with in the various laboratories. Mathematics and physics also are deemed a necessity in many fields today, and are requirements for many branches of the armed forces. . . . Nevada students are sharing their science classes and laboratories with Army pre-flight cadets who are stationed here, and who are required to take the classes as a part of their courses.

Chemistry Club

Interest in chemistry is required for Chemistry Club membership. The organization brings closer relations between the students and instructors. Three social functions are held throughout the year. Monthly meetings are held to deal with subjects not discussed in class. Alfred Mills has served as president for the past year, assisted by the following: Helen Gung, vice-president, and Eleanor Hecker, secretary.

Economics

More than it has before, during past years, the Economics Department at the University has been showing its importance. Professors in the department have been serving as advisors to various government boards which were added with the declaration of war. Students are finding many practical problems on which to work in that field, and the course is each year drawing more students' interest.

Preparing prospective teachers as satisfactorily as possible for the actual problem or situation which will confront them in the school room is the purpose of the Education Department. All teachers who train in Nevada must receive their education at the University, since there is no state teachers college. A course has been added for prospective kindergarten teachers.

Chi Delta Phi

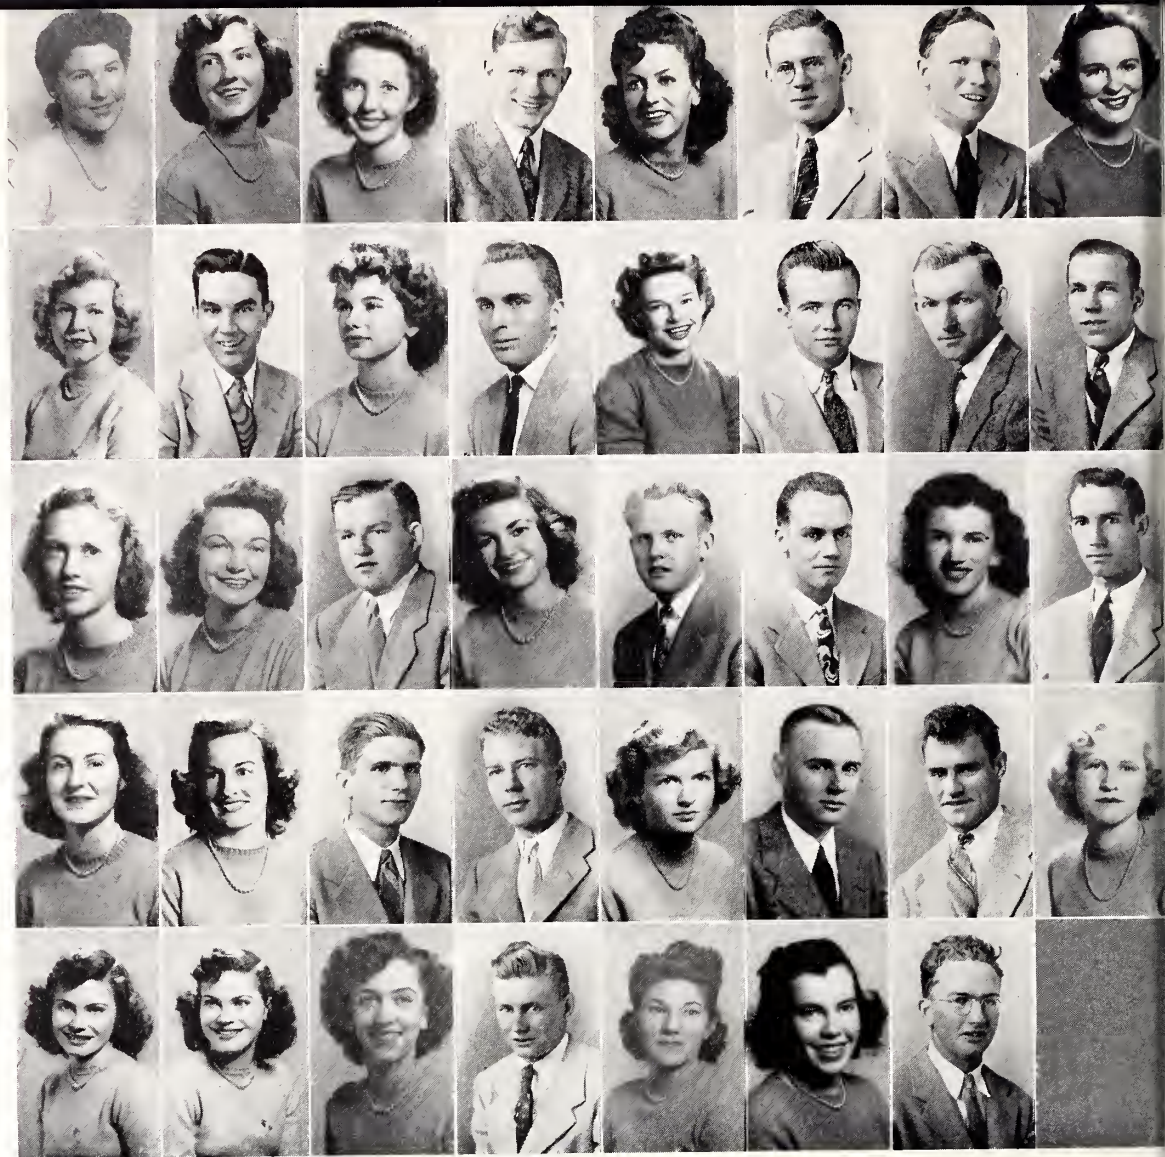

Chi Delta Phi, national honorary English society, decided to do its bit in the war effort by sending books, magazines, games and food to the soldiers stationed at Camp Wendover. Officers of the group during the past year were Rose Arenaz, president; Barbara Francis, vice-president; Viola Sorensen, secretary-treasurer, and Nita Reifschneider, editor.

Press Club

BILL FRIEL, President

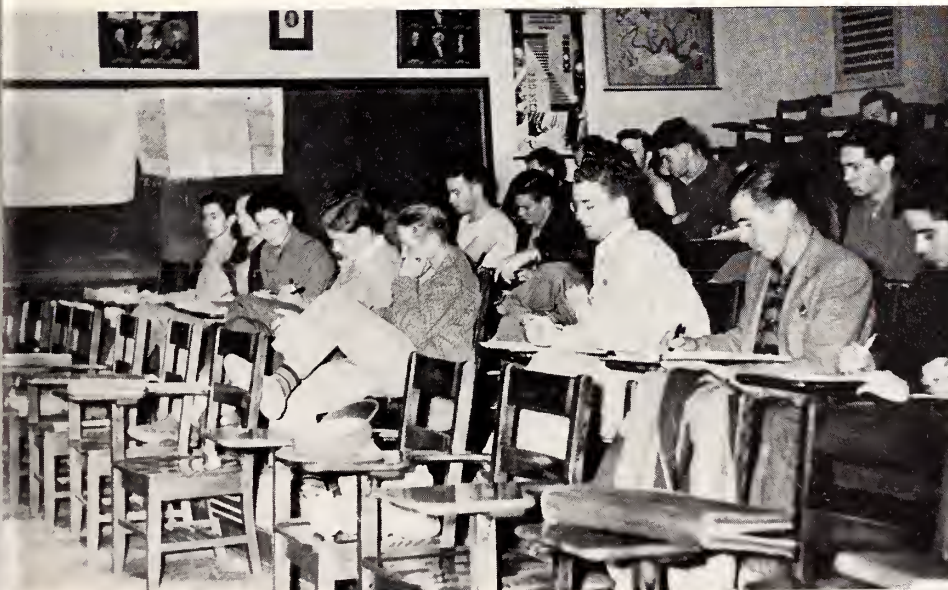

Press Club sponsored its tenth annual high school press convention in Reno this year, complete with round-table discussions, banquets, plant trips and entertainments. Membership bids were issued to eighteen students at the Mackay Day luncheon. Bill Friel served as president of the group until Uncle Sam called, and the year was completed under the leadership of Viola Sorensen. Barbara Francis served as secretary-treasurer of the group.

Mathematics

Knowledge of mathematics is compulsory today, in every field, especially in war industries and the Army, Navy, and Marines. Navy V-1 and V-7 students must take trig, while pre-cadets take government-prescribed courses reviewing all types of math. Nevada's regular professors instruct these men. Two classes have been added in air navigation and spherical trigonometry. While these classes are not compulsory, they are vitally important to students entering the air forces.

All four-year students called into service following graduation will be given promotion to the rank of army corporal. . . . Enlisted reservists continued school work until they received their call. All boys in the Air received their call. All boys in the Air semester as the corps sponsored an extensive college program. Shortly after, calls began to come through for the army reservists.

Scabbard and Blade

Scabbard and Blade is an honorary military organization composed of advanced members of the R.O.T.C. . . . Each year, the group sponsors a tea at which candidates for honorary major are presented. Kathryn Little was selected for the honor this year. Sergeant McCormick was made an honorary member, and, for the first time, John Hattala, a first-year student, was given a commission as a cadet captain.

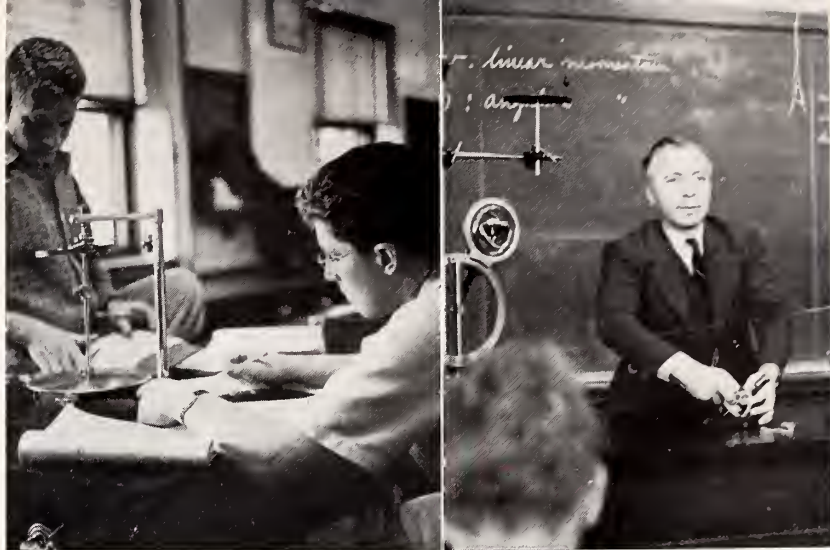

Physical Education

This semester, for the first time, the manpower at the University has been required to take part in a compulsory physical education program at the request of the Army. . . . "The purpose," according to Dr. Martie, head of the P.E. Department, "is to better prepare the men for the training they are to receive upon induction into the armed services." . . . These classes are at two, three and four o'clock in the afternoon, five days a week.

You can find lights burning until all hours of the night over in the laboratories on the east side of the quad, and, if you want to see a beehive of activity, just drop into the physics lab some night. . . . Nevada's pre-flight cadets have taken over the labs during the evenings for the many experiments that they must make in the course. Physics is one of the "musts" among the prerequisites on the cadet's list of courses. . . . Many Nevada students are also interested in physics, and women as well as men are enrolled in the various classes.

Engineers

The current war has done much to add to and detract from the status of the engineering groups on the Nevada campus. Glancing through the records, we find that the normal enrollment in engineering is approximately 240, and the enrollment for the spring semester of 1943 was 141. One may readily see that the war has affected that college. Because of the decreased enrollment, the engineers were unable to sponsor an Engineers' Day comparable to that which they have held in previous years. They were unable to obtain exhibits, and did not have enough students to construct sufficient projects. They did, however, sponsor their annual dance at which they presented several freak exhibits, such as "shocking" their guests. . . . Classes were held this year in the new Engineering Building, which allowed for further expansion in the department and in the installation of much better and a wider variety of equipment with which to work.

JACK PIERCE: Senior Class Manager with much self confidence. "Lover" Pierce concentrates on engineering between his work on innumerable committees

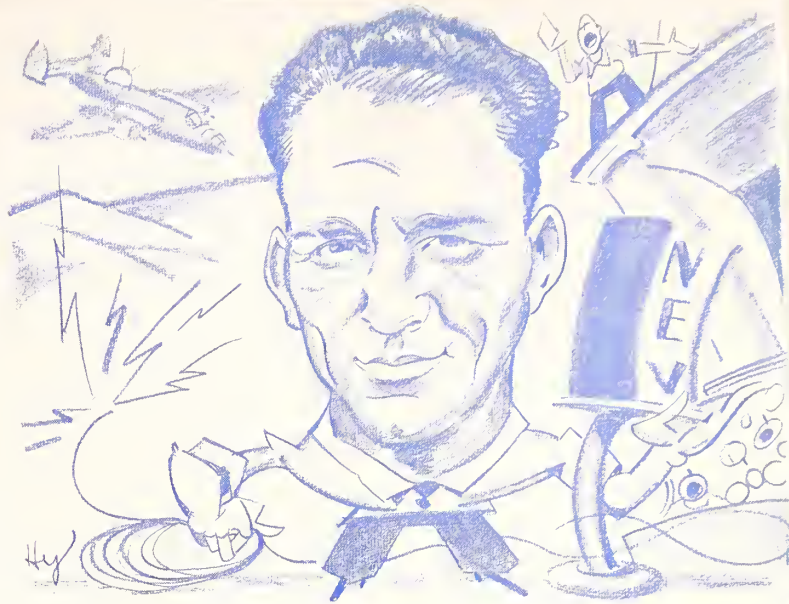

Engineers at War

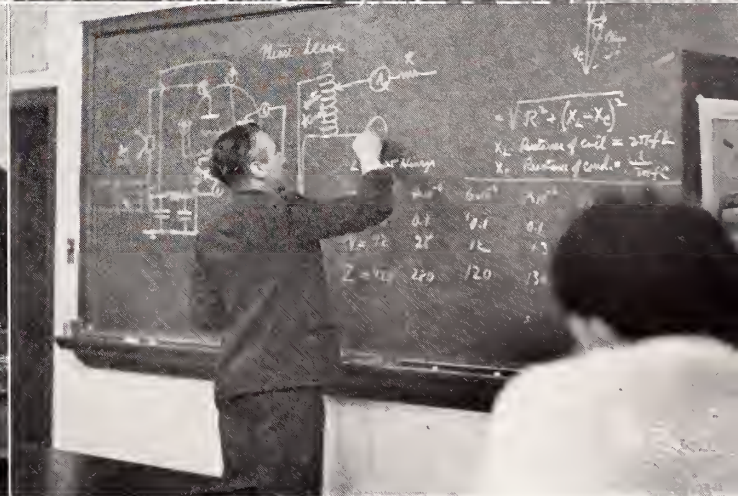

If history repeats itself, we may expect practically all of the undergraduate engineers back in school at the close of the war. After the last war was over, the greater portion of the undergraduate engineers returned to finish school and receive their degrees. . . . The coming graduating class of approximately twenty engineers has already been contacted, and asked to make its services available to the war effort and private industry, which proves that there still is a great demand for highly-skilled technical graduates. This, more than anything else, has been the incentive for all of Nevada's engineers. The fact that there is now, and always will be, a demand for them and a place for them in this battered-up hulk that we call a world. From the foregoing statements, we can, and will, draw these final conclusions. All of our undergraduate engineers in the armed forces, private, and war industry, will be back when normalcy again reigns throughout the world. They will go forth again, armed with a full set of technical brains to fight for their place in their desired professions.

On a basis of scholarship, the upper five per cent of the engineering students are elected into membership in Nu Eta Epsilon, honorary engineering society. President of the group is Duane Ramsey, who has been outstanding in the engineering field during his four years at Nevada. An initiation banquet and election of new members and officers highlight the year's activities. . . . As many of the members have left to join the armed forces, the group was not as active during the past year as it has been in previous years, although several business meetings were held during the year.

JACK PIERCE, President

The annual Engineers' Day was postponed this year because of lack of time for preparing exhibits and shortage of students in the department. In its place, the Associated Engineers sponsored a no-date dance where novel exhibits were featured. In addition, the group has sponsored lectures, both at their own meetings and in co-operation with other groups upon subjects of interest. Jack Pierce has served as president of the group, while Bob Rae and Dick Cameron served as vice-president and secretary respectively.

Civil Engineers

This year the Civil Engineers sponsored a series of lectures and motion pictures at their various meetings, which have been conducted during the last year by President Duane Ramsey. . . . Three members of this year's graduating class, James McCutcheon, Ernest McKenzie and Carl Bruhns, are going to join the Naval Reserve, while two other grads, Jack Pierce and Duane Ramsey, are already naval reservists.

Meetings to promote interest among students in the electrical field are held by the members of the Student Branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers on the campus. The group also brings students into contact with the electrical industry and brings speakers from the centers of industry to the University. Several prominent engineers have spoken during the past year. . . . This year Nevada was represented at the Pacific Coast electrical engineering convention at Vancouver by three delegates. . . . During the fall semester, John Goetz served as chairman, George Couch as vice-chairman, while during the spring semester Ellis Peterson and Lyman Earl served as vice-chairman and secretary-treasurer respectively. Dean Stanley G. Palmer serves as branch counsellor.

Mechanical Engineers

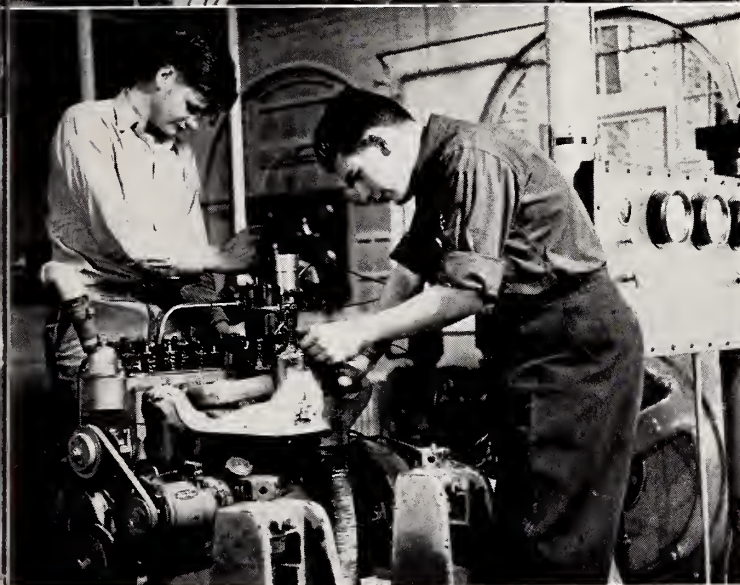

The Mechanical Engineers have found quite a decrease in their membership this year, as Uncle Sam continued to call students from that department into the armed forces. . . . Mechanical Engineers are a branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and the purpose of the organization is to acquaint students with the practical side of engineering. Films are shown and meetings and lectures are presented regularly. . . . All Mechanical Engineers are eligible for membership, and those numbered in the ranks at present are Dave Campbell, Jim Devlin, Allen Galloway, Leroy Mow, George Oshima, Franklin Peck, Bob Towle, Bob Rae and William Van Tassell.

Dr. Harry E. Wheeler and Dr. Vincent Gianella of the Geology Department had the honor of having their work discussed on an "Unlimited Horizons" radio program. Seven buildings on campus are wholly or partially devoted to agricultural science. Most "farm"-liar is the Agricultural Building, where practically all classes are held and where there is a soils laboratory, herbarium and labs for dairy experiments. Other classes include home economics, animal husbandry, botany, biology, agronomy and related subjects.

Students

For the first time since 1918, students were faced with the problems of going to school during war-time, but the few that were left fought to carry on the Nevada traditions. Assemblies featured class programs, skits, lectures, and observance of International Students' Day. The new gym became a reality, but not for student use; Senate outlined service organizations' duties; students cooperated with the Navy to sponsor Navyda; reelections were called as men joined the armed forces; a girl was elected class manager; entire student body helped the frosh paint the N; number of dances were cut; 500 air cadets moved in; twenty high school presidents attended annual convention; Nevada was host to the student presidents of universities and colleges in the eleven western states; service flag was unveiled on December 8; students lost "man behind the scenes" when Joe T. joined the Army; service groups helped the war effort by selling stamps and bonds, and no new A.S.U.N. officers were elected.

A. W. S.

GENE MASTROIANNI: Campus citizen No. 1. Our busy student body president. Serious, conscientious. Has friends the campus over

A.W.S. sponsored Lt. Tova L. Peterson, WAVE recruiter, and Lt. Mary Miller and Lt. Mary McGlinn of the WAAC's at assemblies. . . . A committee made arrangements for the presentation of the women's service flag during an outdoor gathering of the student body. A Women's War Council which handles all war work done by University coeds was organized. . . . The women also held their annual fashion show, through which money is raised for an A.W.S. scholarship and loan fund.

Alumni

Made up of grads and former students at the University is the Alumni Association which is headed at present by Earl Wooster. During the past year the group issued an alumni magazine. Since Manager Joe T. McDonnell left for the army, Art Palmer has taken over the handling of the accounts of the various student organizations and the Board of Athletic Control.

EARL WOOSTER, Alumni President

Senate

Activities conducted by the Senate included: Plans for the Dean Sibley Memorial; electing a subsidiary rally committee; revising the parking plan; sponsoring an international student assembly; suspending four coeds from campus activities; upperclass committee given power to punish those defacing school property; a good-will movement between high schools and the University was started and a new assembly program was organized.

Finance Control and Publication Board

Student expenditures and budgets must all meet with the approval of the Finance Control Board and this year the board has really had a big responsibility. Two faculty members, two student body senators and the student body president compose the board. . . . Within a two-week period this spring, the Publications Board had to select new editors for both of the student publications, because Uncle Sam put in a call for Bill Friel and Walt Riggle. Jack Fleming and Bette Poe were selected to replace them. . . . The board acts in an advisory capacity to the heads of the publications and to their staff members. It also selects the business managers for the Artemisia and Sagebrush.

President Streeter punishes frosh violator, Charles Fleming, with the verbal assistance of George Frey, Pete Echeverria, Ed Monsanto and Bill Beko.

Enforcement of traditions took a new form this year when the Women's Upperclass Committee temporarily suspended four offenders from campus activities. . . . More lenient punishment in the form of cup, sidewalk, and step cleaning, was given to minor violators. . . . Student body assemblies were enlivened by the skits of Senior Bench sitters, campus cutters, and bowless, bibleless freshmen women. . . . Under the powerful hand of Jack "Hindu" Streeter, punishment was meted out to offending male students on the campus. The majority of those punished received swats or a nice swim in icy Manzanita for failing to wear dinks, painting the N, cutting campus or forgetting their bibles. The committee was hoping for a wholesale laking of students not wearing costumes on Mackay Day, but found only one culprit.

Classes

Four years seem to be a very short time now that Seniors are looking back, and thinking of the days when they enrolled at Nevada as lowly frosh, and had to trek up Peavine to paint the "N." But, then, maybe that wasn't so long ago. In fact, it seems that it was just this spring that the mighty Seniors were again trudging up the mountain side to do a little whitewashing job. Reason? The frosh class was so depleted that the entire student body, even the Seniors (who exercised their authority and served as supervisors) helped with the semi-annual painting. Senior Week brought the climax to four years of outstanding activities, with the class bursting forth with a week to top all weeks. During the past year, the class has been under the capable managership of Jack Pierce.

WALTER RIGGLE, Manager

Junior Class

Just one step from being the "big shots" on the campus is the Junior Class, which finally ended up with Bruce Bowen serving as class manager, after Uncle Sam had put in his bid for a couple of the previous managers. During the fall semester, the class burst forth with its semi-formal Junior Prom, which proved a success. . . . Exercising their traditional prerogative, Junior Class members disappeared from the campus, one day this spring, and, search as one might, there was nary a Junior to be found. Came the light, Junior Cut Day, and an enthusiastic student body set out to find the picnic spot and join in the festivities. . . . To prove that their class, small though it was, knew how to do things up right, the Juniors came forth with a Senior Ball that will long be remembered by those in whose honor it was given.

Junior Prom Committee: Dorothy Savage, Gloria Gildone, Rodney Boudwin, Darden Tibbs, Addison Milard, Betty Preece, Kathryn Berman

BOB CROWELL: Theta Chi's pride and joy. Another anti-B.M.O.C.'er. Winner of Soph scholarship watch. Forensic Key, Blue Key, Coffin and Key, Sagebrush, Scabbard and Blade. Any resemblance to a B.M.O.C. is purely coincidental

HOWARD HECKETHORNE, Manager

Sophomores

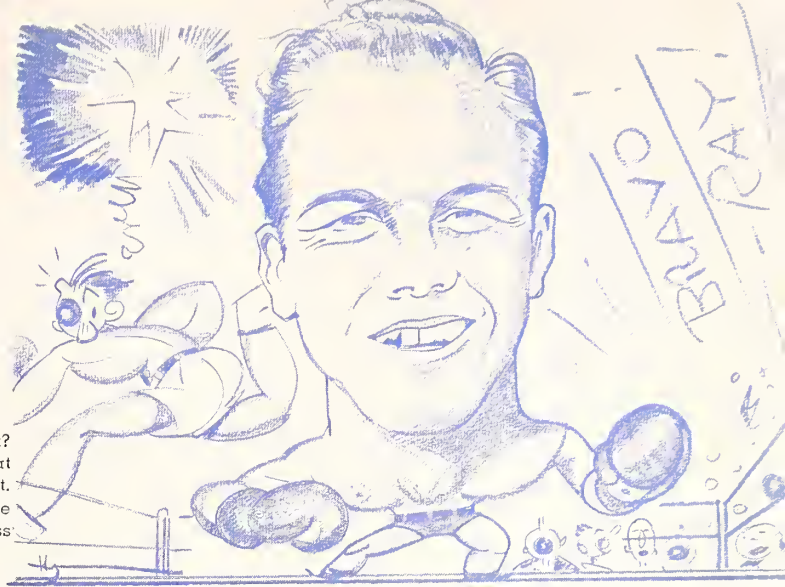

Soph Hop Committee: Tom Buckman, Barbara Heany, Hope Fleming and Robert Ast

HOWARD HECKETHORNE: The champ . . . at what? Prize-fighting, of course! Doesn't go around with that pugilistic attitude, though. Friendly and earnest. "Hecky" found time from his boxing duties to be manager of the Soph class

For the first time in the history of the University, a coed was selected to rule as class manager, and that distinct honor goes to the Sophomore Class, who selected Bette Poe from the Theta house to be their "big boss" for the second semester. And Bette proved that a coed could be as capable as a fellow in handling class affairs. . . . Members of the Sophomore "vigilante" committee aided the men's upperclass committee in keeping order on the campus and seeing that campus traditions were not broken. . . . The class proved that it was outstanding by being active on campus committees and organizations.

HAROLD HILTS: Peppy Frosh manager. Handled the fall "N" painting and freshman activities most successfully—even with an unusually small class. Left his job for an even busier one with the Army

Being the smallest Frosh Class at the University for a number of years did not dampen the ardor of the "babies" on the campus one little bit. They showed everyone that they might not have quantity, but they had quality, and knew how to carry on campus traditions. . . . During the fall semester, they trekked up Peavine just before Homecoming to paint the "N," but spring found their ranks with still fewer members, so they called on the entire student body to come out and help them see that the "N" was properly white-washed. . . . As is customary, the freshmen women again conducted their annual "Buy a Brick" campaign, through which funds are being raised for a new Student Union Building, some time in the future. At the second series of class manager elections, Jack Swedenberg was chosen to see that the frosh stayed in there pitching.

WALTER RIGGLES and BETTE POE, Co-Editors

The Army Air Corps made alterations in plans when Walter Riggles was called and Bette Poe became editor. In spite of increasing cost and difficulty in obtaining materials, the same number of pages was maintained. Four color plates for division pages and fifty cartoons in blue color were added. The book centered around a war theme. Compliments go to Jane Dugan, Yvonne Rosasco, Elcey Williams, Kay Henningsen, Viola Sorensen, and Morris Gallagher, as well as to the entire staff for excellent contributions.

Due to war-time exigencies the task of financing this year's Artemisia was difficult. Many of the staff were included among those leaving for the armed services. However, generous support of local businessmen and merchants enabled us to meet our budget. Thanks go to Mrs. Smith's advertising class for their many helpful ideas in drawing up the ads, and to Adey May Dunnell and Mary Watts for outstanding work in soliciting ads.

CLIFTON YOUNG, Business Manager

BILL FRIEL and JACK FLEMING, Co-Editors

Uncle Sam grabbed Sagebrush Editor Bill Friel, so the Publications Board elected another man. Jack (Flamo) Fleming was the one who became editor. The women put out a special Homecoming edition of the paper with Viola Sorensen, senior Theta, serving as editor at that time. The women's edition for Mackay Day was edited by Lois Bradshaw, also a Theta. Adey May Dunnell served as business manager for both editions.

The Sagebrush Staff

Advertisements to bring in money to print "ye college rag" were gained through the efforts of Deane Quilici and his capable business staff who sold local businessmen on the idea that 'Brush advertising pays. . . . At present the editor and business manager are trying to supplement the 'Brush with news from the air force trainees in both news and subscriptions.

Book Two

College life adapts itself to war-time conditions and the problem of gas and tire rationing

College Life

Even with the grim seriousness of war in the background, Nevada students realized what it means to have happiness, and so they take time out to laugh and be gay, during our first real war semester at the University. Dances were cut in number, but we still had them, and also our annual Wolves Frolic, which, however, was the last one for the duration. And, as usual, all Nevada's extra-curricula activities were fun!

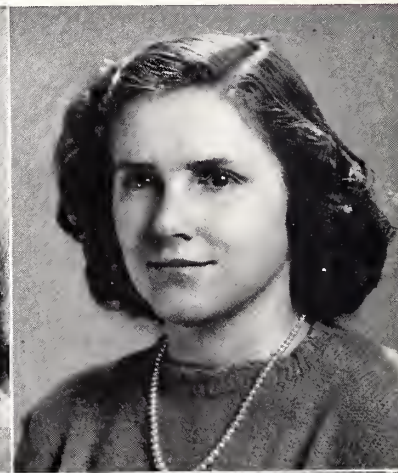

Honoraries

Cap and Scroll

Secrecy veils activities of Cap and Scroll, honorary organization for senior women, with members selected from the upper ten per cent of the class. . . . Monthly dinners are held by the group at which time their secret business is transacted. Special function of the organization is to give aid to other women's organizations on the campus who request it. Alice Traner served as president of the organization until mid-semester when Harriet Morrison was elected.

Coffin and Keys is the highest men's honorary group on the campus and only men who have been prominent in campus life, and who have proved that they are leaders and have good character and integrity, are given bids to membership. . . . The activities of the group are secret, but they try to benefit the campus as a whole. George Basta served as president of the group until he was called into active service by the army. Addison Millard is now serving as president of the organization.

DEAN FREDERICK WOOD, President

Phi Kappa Phi

To give recognition to outstanding senior students in the scholastic field, is the purpose of Phi Kappa Phi of which Dr. Frederick Wood is president. Members are selected from the upper eighth of the Senior Class according to scholastic standing, character and leadership. Three elections, in the fall, at mid-semester and in the spring, are held. . . . The new members are presented at a student body meeting and are the honored guests at an initiation banquet.

Blue Key

To become a member of Blue Key, honorary campus service group, a man must be of junior standing, show qualities of leadership, scholastic ability, enthusiasm, interest, and loyalty to the University. It was organized as a national fraternity in Florida in 1924, and has since become a well-known national organization. At Nevada, the Blue Key sponsored hour social dances during the fall semester, enforced campus parking regulations, issued the student directory, and assisted in student rallies.

Sagens

YVONNE ROSASCO, President

Topping all campus sales for war stamps and bonds, the Sagens, who originated the idea, sold a total of $1,625 in bonds and $45 in stamps on the day that they conducted the bond booth. During all athletic functions, rallies and at assemblies, you can find the peppy Sagens. . . . Yvonne Rosasco served as president of the group for the past year. The newly-elected president is Kathryn Berman.

Sagers

Have something you want done? Why not see the Sagers, campus pep organization, about it? They serve as ushers at football games and assemblies, attend football rallies, paint the parking lot and clean up after Mackay Day. . . . They aided in selling of stamps and bonds and presented "kisses" to all who bought. . . . Three dinners were held, as was the Sagers Varsity Swing. Uncle Sam called President Bud Tholl, so his year was completed by Elmo De Ricco.

All-around good fellows who are adept at catching chickens are likely to find a bid to the Sundowners on their hands. . . . Neophytes must appear with a chicken, and help construct a camp where the honorable knights of the road lounge and sip their morning coffee. Meetings are informal, as members really live up to their purpose, which is to have a good time. Don Burrus is the high and mighty chieftain, while George Homer is his able assistant and Wallace Townsend jots down an occasional note as to what goes on.

MILDRED MISSIMER HARRIS, President

Sponsoring such projects as the World Student Service Fund and the purchase of war bonds and stamps, and working for the Red Cross, have been the special services carried on by the campus Y.W.C.A. . . . Delegates were sent to conventions at Stanford and Berkeley where plans were made for post-war activities and discussions held as to how the Y.W.C.A. could best help with local war-time activities. Mildred Missimer Harris has served as president the past year.

Delta Delta Epsilon

ELMO DeRICCO, President

Men students who have been in the band for one semester and who have a B average in band are eligible for membership in Delta Delta Epsilon, honorary band fraternity. Members assist at football games both by playing and originating drill movements used during exhibition marches, and provide pep bands for assemblies and basketball games. During the year, Elmo De Ricco was elected president of the group.

BOB BRUCE, President

Band

The University of Nevada band has indeed been active during the past year, under the capable direction of Prof. Theodore H. Post. They have appeared at many community functions, such as concerts and parades, have played at football games, assemblies, rallies and basketball games. Because of the decrease in enrollment last fall, the band issued a call for recruits, and found hidden talent among the faculty members, who came forward to "toot their horns."

Front row: Crane, Crehore, Siri, Burkhalter, Honeywell, Trigero, Tibbs, Collins, Shovelin, Prescott, Brown, Flavin, Holcomb

Nevada has long been noted for its pep and the friendly spirit that prevails in all student activities, and it was this very spirit that gave rise to our best-known slogan, "On the Hill it's Hello!" Our University is indeed on top when it comes to such things as pep, vim, vigor and vitality, and we don't have a chance to forget it, either, what with all the rally committees, pep and service organizations on the campus. This year, for the first time, a subsidiary committee to aid the rally committee was appointed.

Pete Echeverria and Clifton Young won all debates they entered at a tournament held at Linfield College, Oregon. They defeated similar teams from thirty-five colleges and universities, by winning ten straight victories. . . . Bob Crowell and Bruce Bowen of the junior team tied for third place in the junior division. . . . Echeverria won first place in the after-dinner speaking and extemporaneous contests. All four entered the extemporaneous contest, and among them won one first, two seconds, one third and five fourth places. Young won second place in oratory and they tied for fourth and fifth places in the impromptu speech. Young was given a cup for extemporaneous also, and a plaque for having served as president of the Congress of Human Relations.

Fine Arts

Numerous exhibits by well-known Nevada and Western artists featured the displays sponsored by the Fine Arts group at the University during the past year. . . . Membership into the group is gained by sitting at the exhibits and giving information as to the various pictures to interested comers. . . . A silver tea was sponsored by the group at the conclusion of the spring semester.

Miss Navyda

Petite and lovely was Miss Navyda who was chosen from six campus cuties to entertain Nevada's five-hundredth recruit on Navyda Day. The honor went to Yvonne "Evie" Rosasco, Kappa Alpha Theta. Evie and Fred Cade, number 500, were regally entertained about town at a football game, dinner at the Trocadero, dance, supper at the Fortune and then church and breakfast the next morning.

Homecoming

A gala celebration marked the 23rd Annual Homecoming at Nevada, even though war imposed numerous restrictions on festivities. The traditional Phi Sigma Kappa street dance wished in the weekend events. Friday night the rally bonfire traditionally held in Mackay Stadium was disbanded because fire material was unavailable. However, the rally was held with prominent campusites and townspeople as guest speakers. The Wolves Frolic at the Granada Theatre, following the rally, was a snappy gay production. Sigma Nu's Hula and Cockeyed Mayor took the fraternity award, while Pi Beta Phi's War Brides stole the sorority skit award. The Gay Nineties brought to life by the Independents received the organization award. Another distinctive act was the faculty barbershop quartet, Profs. Post, Chadwick, Mertel, and Williams starring. Specialty acts consisted of a boy and girl kick chorus directed by Ruth Ryan and a novelty number. Among the other sorority and fraternity skits were featured S.A.E.'s Charm School, Sweetheart of A.T.O., Lambda Chi's I Wish I Were Back in College, Sigma Rho Delta's Yankee Doodle Dandy, Kappa Alpha Theta's Sweater Girls, Delta Delta Delta's Homecoming Welcome and Gamma Phi Beta's train trip to the S.F. Game.

Wolves' Frolic

Saturday morning, Art Larrance, Lambda Chi, won the Reno-Sparks four-mile race but Theta Chi's defending champions won the team title and received 60 Kinnear points. A small parade, minus sorority floats, was the next event on the program. Led by a delegation of honored guests, the entrants included the University R.O.T.C. Unit and Band, the Blue Peppers, fraternity floats and sorority marching units. . . . Sigma Nu and Delta Delta Delta were awarded the parade prizes. Individual entries were Delta Delta Delta's "V" marching unit in red, white and blue, while Kappa Alpha Theta's marching unit was composed of representatives from factory, farm and war front. Pi Beta Phi carried a tiny girl in old-fashioned dress as a miniature replica of their prize-winning welcome of Homecoming, '41. Gamma Phi Beta's entry was a horse and buggy. . . . Approximately 180 attended the alumni banquet at Lawton Springs Saturday night at which Coach Aiken, President Hartman, and Hugo Quilici delivered addresses. Presentation of parade and Frolic prizes headlined the wind-up dance at the State Building Saturday night. Pi Beta Phi and Lambda Chi Alpha were given awards for the largest representation at the dance.

BEATRICE THOMPSON: Tall, accordion-playing blonde. Is a "must see" at Wolves Frolic performances. Smart enough to be on that coveted honor roll several times! Noted for her droll sense of humor

With Homecoming expenses cut and many difficulties arising from war times, we must take off our hats to the committee that staged Nevada's first war-time celebration. Co-Chairmen Bernard Smith and Clark Guild, Katie Little, Frank Bacigalupi, Ruth Mary Noble, Jerry Wetzel, Bette Poe and Rodney Boudwin composed the committee for the gala three-day program.

NICK MASTROVICH: Likeable S. A. E. Nick is hearty; a good fellow and friend. Likes to stop and chat with people. Looks good in that Scabbard and Blade uniform

Fraternity Functions

The social calendar for the fall semester opened with the annual Blue Key Get-together dance. Successful sorority and fraternity pledge dances, costume dances, campus celebrations and popular assemblies then ensued. Blue Key socials every Wednesday night were held in the gym, while Sagers and Blue Peppers entertained at dances. Lincoln Hall held open house following the Cal Poly game, while Alpha Tau Omega, in a more formal vein, honored the campus sorority pledges at a tea.

Left: Kay Henningsen and Carmen Bergeret act as hostesses at a faculty tea. Center: Sigma Nus sponsor an evening of fun. Right: Pre-holiday gayety is indulged in by the Independents

JAMES FORSYTH: "The drama is the thing"—Creed of Forsyth! Appropriate, too, for this man with the gift for acting. A witty mixer of metaphors, similes, and other quirks of speech. Has an infectious laugh; it "gets" you! Wise sayer of preponderous things—above my head

On The Campus

Highlights of fraternity-sorority society were presentation teas at each sorority to introduce pledges to the public, and the many special house dances. The Taus went South Sea Island at their Coconut dance and wild spirit prevailed the S.A.E. Indian dance. Lambda Chi had a nursery fad, their Baby dance. Theta Chi and Phi Sigs held their annual costume dances while Pi Phi turned their basement into a barn. Kappa Alpha Theta borrowed a touch of the Far East, while couples danced in a formal Chinese setting. Gamma Phis hung out the old harvest moon while farmers and farmerettes jogged and Delta Delta Delta relived adolescent days.

BARBARA FRANCIS: A synonym for pep. Sagens, Sagebrush, Chi Delta Phi keep her busy. Infectious giggle. The senior class's prize comedienne

Second Semester

Nevada's 23rd annual Homecoming was somewhat curtailed by the war. However, events ran almost as usual. On Friday Phi Sig's held their street dance, and Saturday witnessed a parade, minus sorority floats, a football game and dance. . . . Soph-Frosh Hop had a martial theme predominating. The Junior Prom at the Twentieth Century Club was a tremendous success. "White Christmas" was the theme, and attractive decorations revolved around the enormous tree in the middle of the floor. Football games drew huge crowds of University rooters and team supporters from town. The Blue Peppers frequently gave snappy exhibitions with the University band adding color to the events.

Campus Life

With the setting of social events for the spring semester, several limitations were inaugurated. Greek houses would not consider more than three dances during the semester. . . . The annual Military Ball was a stirring display of uniforms and formal gowns. A large American flag fashioned from crepe paper waved overhead while the Grand March opened the celebration.

Mackay Day-ers

Basketball games were exciting events on the winter's calendar, and packed the gym with spectators witnessing the victories of our Wolf Pack. . . . Mackay Day was a roaring success. On Friday the campus went western with beards and boots everywhere. Saturday noon was the luncheon, at which time speeches and award distributing plus sorority and fraternity entertainment predominated. Climaxing the celebration was the Mackay Day dance, which presented a colorful picture. . . . And, as spring transforms the Hill into a scene of color and beauty, students cram for final exams, attend the Senior Ball and, on May 24 came graduation and a new chapter in life.

WARREN SALMON: Never would have known his name wasn't "Fish" if it hadn't been posted on so many committees. Bright smile, friendly personality. Boss of this year's Mackay Day Committee

Nevada's 23rd annual Mackay Day celebration, held April 9 and 10, was a most successful affair. Every year, in commemoration of Clarence Mackay's interest, generosity, and activity in behalf of the University, the campus sets aside a weekend. Costumes are worn by all students, a fraternity assembly, a broadcast by radio station KOH and open houses at all sororities compose the program for Friday.

Traditional campus cleanup, luncheon and dance were the Saturday events. Men's beards were checked in front of the gym, followed by a benediction before the Mackay statue led by the Rev. Robert Caswell. . . . Highlights of the weekend celebration were the luncheon with Sylvia DuChane as toast-mistress, and sorority and fraternity song-team competition and awards.

Cups were awarded for men's beards and best men's and women's costumes. Pi Beta Phi won the best sorority representation at the dance, best fraternity song-team award was won by Lambda Chi Alpha and best sorority song by Kappa Alpha Theta.

American Women's

A.W.V.S. had no sooner set up a desk than it was swamped with University of Nevada coeds offering their services. Coeds on our campus have found innumerable ways to work with this group and have taken courses in map reading and spent many hours rolling Red Cross bandages each week.

Volunteer Service

To inspire constant donation of time to A.W.V.S. activities, a girl must have worked fifty hours before she is eligible to wear a uniform. It was recorded that the coeds have contributed over 1699 hours to the local A.W.V.S. Although the work is not on a competitive basis for the different sororities and organizations, members of each have competed for supremacy ratings. Theta's have led in voluntary work, with Gamma Phi, Tri Delta and Pi Phi following, respectively.

YVONE ROSASCO, President

Pan-Hellenic Council

Streamlining rushing to cut down expenses and elaboration was the chief accomplishment of Panhellenic Council this year. Under the leadership of Theta Yvonne Rosasco, the council worked out an honor system for the elimination of "dirty rushing" on the campus. . . . Members unanimously decided last fall that sororities would not enter floats in the annual Homecoming parade due to expense involved. Instead, sororities entered marching units in the competition. . . . Each sorority held its presentation tea, but no campus teas were held. To further better feeling among the four national sororities, visiting officers are asked to address the entire group, while inter-sorority parties have become popular.

Standing: Ruth Mary Noble, Betty Nash Carlson. Seated: Yvonne Rosasco, Margaret Reading, Fritz Jane Neddenriep, Lois Welden, Dorothy Savage

Inter-fraternity Council, with Jim Kehoe as president, co-ordinated matters concerning fraternities this year with a minimum of friction. Principal action was the successful relocation of Lincoln Hall men. Activities included the annual beanfeed and the Interfrat Dance which required, in addition to the admission fee, a good book for distribution to Army camps throughout the state. Alpha Tau Omega stole the show at the Inter-fraternity Assembly.

Athletics

All sports activities other than football and basketball have been eliminated from the athletic field, and an intensive training program in calisthenics, required of all physically capable male students, has taken the place of minor sports. The new training schedule was requested by the Army and Navy authorities to prepare men students for service with the armed forces. The program is under the direction of Dr. J. E. Martie. Coach Aiken and Jake Lawlor also did much to further the new program.

Lacking in reserves and experience, Nevada's light grid squad fought stubbornly the entire 1942 season against stiff competition, to emerge with four wins, three losses, and one tie. Jim Aiken's gridsters opened the season by decisively defeating Cal Poly, 18-0, on Mackay Field. With several freshmen playing on the varsity, Aiken used every player on his thirty-man squad to completely outclass the Mustangs in the 1942 grid opener.

Hundreds of Nevada rooters saw a valiant Nevada Wolf Pack go down before the crushing onslaught of the powerful San Francisco Dons. Although plagued by costly fumbles and pass interceptions, the Nevadans put up a game fight during the entire contest. Intercepting a Don pass on the five-yard line, Marion Motley, giant Negro mentioned on several all-American selections, galloped 95 yards to give Nevada a 7-7 half-time tie. Chances for an upset faded in the second half when the heavy Dons powerhoused to a 27-7 win. . . . Rising to superb heights after their defeat at the hands of the St. Mary Gaels, the crippled Wolves rang up their second victory of the '42 season—a trouncing of the Stockton Ordinance Motor Base. Displaying a variety of baffling ground plays, the Pack ran roughshod over the bewildered Stockton eleven. . . . Santa Ana Air Base gave way under an aggressive Nevada ground attack to enable the Pack to eke out a 3-to-0 win. Motley's field goal in the fourth quarter of the game provided the margin of victory for the Nevadans. . . . The indomitable Homecoming Day spirit elevated the Nevada Wolf Pack to spectacular heights, but the Pack was held to a scoreless tie by the New Mexico Lobos in a thrilling, hard-fought game

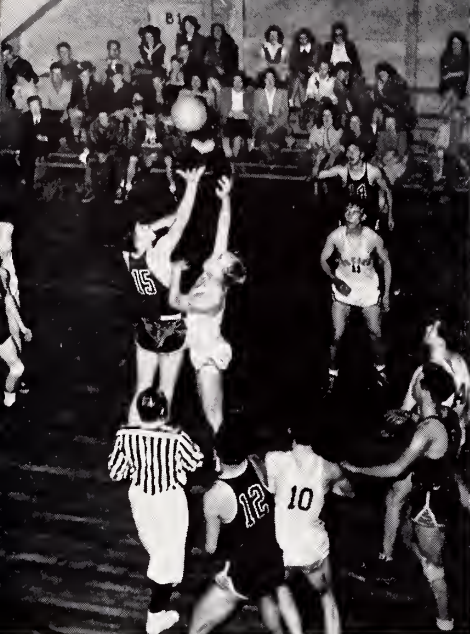

Football

Smashing to the ten-yard line five times during the game, a tough Lobo line spoiled Nevada's chance for a well-deserved win. End Kenny Sims suffered a broken arm during the game and was lost to the Pack for the remainder of the season. . . . Fresno State Bulldogs handed Nevada a 33-to-0 lacing. Scoring four touchdowns on pass plays, the Bulldogs gave Nevada their worst defeat of the 1942 season. The Wolf Pack scored two touchdowns in the final quarter to defeat the Cal Aggies, 14-0, in the game which ended the season for the fighting band of Wolf Pack gridsters.

Basketball

Nevada's Wolf Pack hoopsters concluded the best cage season in eighteen years of basketball competition with fourteen wins and four losses. Taking over the realms of Nevada's coaching dynasty, Jake Lawlor, former Wolf Pack athlete, faced the problem of building a high-calibre team out of the returning veterans that had lost fifteen games and won but one the previous season.

Led by Bob O'Shaughnessy and Jim Melarkey, each garnering 20 points, Nevada amassed one of the greatest scores in Nevada's cage history in a win over the hapless McClellan Fliers. . . . Nevada added more wins to its undefeated record by drubbing the highly-touted Mather Field Fliers, and Hawthorne Marines. St. Mary's powerful Gaels broke Nevada's five-game winning streak by edging the Wolf Pack, 42 to 39, but the Pack came back the following night to trim the cagey Moragans, 46 to 44. Toward the end of the game, spectators and players became engulfed in a melee of flying fists. The near-riot was quelled and the Nevadans came through with another thrilling triumph. Nevada downed the Reno Air Base Fliers officers' quintet, 60-37, in an Army benefit game. Melarkey's sharp-shooting ability, O'Shaughnessy's spectacular floor game and Jack Swedenborg's tip-ins gave Nevada their ninth win in ten starts. . . . Playing their last athletic contest for the duration, the Cal Aggie Mustangs lost both games to Nevada. Nevada traveled to Mather Field and won a hard-fought game from the Fliers, 39 to 33.

Basketball

Displaying a speedy offense, the Pack trounced Chico State, 41 to 26, but the Wildcats came back the second night to edge the Nevadans. O'Shaughnessy scored 31 points in the second encounter to break his collegiate scoring record of 30 points. Nevada's cagers split their series with San Jose State, edging the Spartans, 45-43, and losing, 62-39, the following night. Nevada pulled a mild upset against S.F. State by taking a close 40-to-35 decision from the Gators. The Gators hit their game-winning stride in the closing moments to defeat a fighting Nevada quintet, 44-35, in Nevada's final game of the season.

Preparing frosh basketball material for future varsity playing is the job of the frosh basketball coach. The job for the past several years has been in the capable hands of Jim Bailey, but the Navy decided that it needed Jim so Coach Jim Aiken, to whom Nevada points with pride during the football season, took over the training of the team. . . . The frosh team played high school hoopsters and also received workouts by playing company teams from the nearby Reno Army Air Base and several independent town teams. The frosh stars played a highly successful season, losing only one game, and that was to Hawthorne. The team often played as many as three or four games during the week and proved that they were fast becoming capable material for the varsity squad. . . . Outstanding players on the team were Hank Mentaberry, Ed Reed and Mike Drakulich. Jack Swedenborg, frosh, was allowed to play on the varsity team because of his previous excellent record, and because of the urgent need for players. He more than proved his ability as a stellar Nevada forward.

Intramural Sports

Though fraternities had fewer men to enter into the competitions this year, intramural sports nevertheless went over with a bang, with Alpha Tau Omega walking away with the majority of the cups, presented by James Kehoe, Inter-fraternity Council president, at the Mackay Day luncheon. Theta Chi took home the next greatest number of cups, while Lambda Chi Alpha put in its bid for one cup.

CHET SCRANTON: Head man in the intra-mural sport program

Alpha Tau Omega walked away with both of the trophies in the tennis singles and doubles. Netters Ed Reed and Willie Etchemendy showed that they knew their tennis by smashing their way to easy net victories in the doubles contests. Proving that he was as versatile playing by himself as with Etchemendy, Reed came in to snag the tennis singles honors. . . . When it comes to pitching horseshoes, it seems that anyone who is interested should stop in at the Theta Chi house for a few lessons.

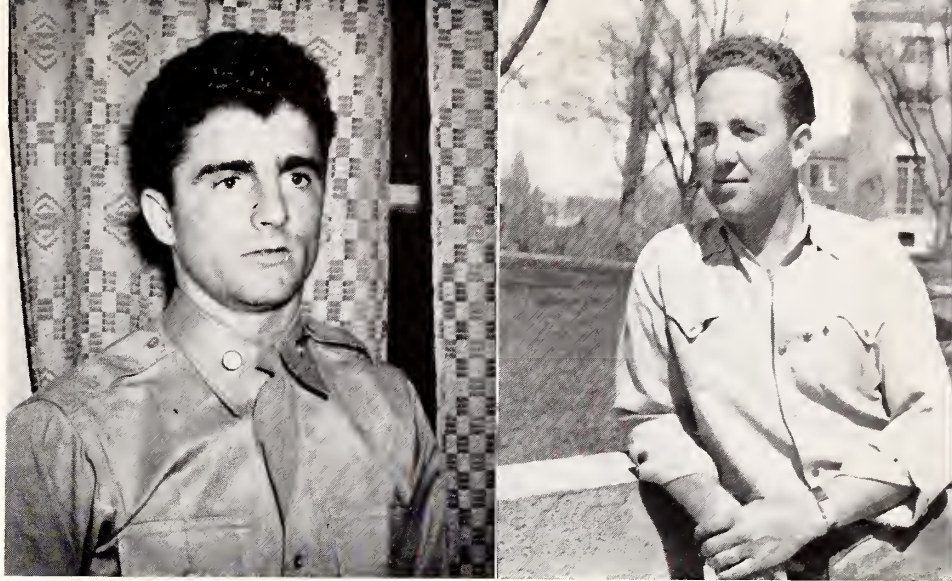

Harold Keen and Ray Davis, horseshoe doubles champions

Intramural Sports

After a hotly-contested battle, Harold Keen and Ray Davis put in a few extra ringers and added the doubles horseshoe cup to the Theta Chi trophy shelf. Showing the Theta Chis that they, too, had good pitching material, the Taus came forth with Neil Stewart to win the singles contest. . . . To put in a bid and show that they can't be forgotten entirely when it comes to campus sports activities between fraternity groups, Lambda Chi won the volleyball championship.

Art Larrance breaks the tape as winner of the cross-country race. Fulstone comes in second place in the cross-country race

Lambda Chi Alpha produced a topnotch volleyball team to capture the title in that sport. The Lambda Chis spent a lot of hours in practice for that award, and many were the afternoons that they could be found over in Whittaker Park, batting the ball around. . . . Deciding that they still hadn't captured enough trophies for the growing supply in their trophy case, the Alpha Taus entered Willie Etchemendy, their mentor, in the handball tourney, and, sure enough, Willie brought home the bacon. No handball doubles tourney was held.

Intramural Sports

Art Larrance did his best for Lambda Chi, and won top individual honors in the cross-country run. Team honors for the running, however, went to Theta Chi. . . . Bringing on groans and tired, aching muscles seemed to be the chief accomplishment of the intramural basketball tourney. Whipping the best team into shape, however, was Theta Chi.

Top: Bowen scores in Lambda Chi-A.T.O. basketball game. Center: Theta Chis score again. Bottom Theta Chis, inter-fraternity basketball champs, front, Mills, Davis, Frey, Maifi, back, Rogers, Kubler

Boxing and Wrestling

Among Nevada students who started training for boxing was Jack Streeter, who fought in the novice light-heavy-weight (175 pounds) and won four straight bouts. Howard Heckethorn went to the finals of the senior light-weight (135 pounds), winning until he met Art Case, unbeaten triple champion, to whom he lost by a decision. Gus Cifelli, 220 pounds, showed a lot of speed and a clever left jab which won three straight fights and the Golden Gloves heavyweight title. Bobby Bergen went to the semi-finals of the novice middleweight (160 pounds).

Gothic N

Highest attainment in women's athletics is a bid to Gothic N. Members are presented with life-time passes to all athletic functions on the campus and outstanding graduates are given Gothic N blankets. Blankets were awarded to Viola Sorensen, Frances Hawkins, Harriet Morrison, Florence Alexander, and Lauris Gulling. Officers were Frances Hawkins, Harriet Morrison, and Viola Sorensen.

Conditioning and marching classes were added to women's P.E. classes this year to aid Nevada coeds in keeping fit for their many war-time activities. Archers again participated in the Pacific coast intercollegiate tournament, with Viola Sorensen carrying away top honors for Nevada. A large group of new girls was initiated, and a dinner was held. For the first time in several years, a co-recreational evening was held and proved to be successful.

Advertising

To help make the 1943 Artemisia a success, many Reno merchants gladly bought advertising space in Nevada's first war-time year-book, since the advent of World War II. Without their loyal support and aid, many University endeavors throughout the year would fail to be the successes that they have been. Merchants of Reno, we salute you and thank you for your kindness to all of us up here on the Hill.

Pershing County

Offers unexcelled opportunities in livestock, farming, and mining. It is crossed by two transcontinental railroads and a national highway, and is close to good markets . . . Lovelock Valley, the principal farming section, has ideal soil, raises finest-quality alfalfa and grain, and is an excellent cattle-feeding point. The Reclamation Service has completed a dam on the Humboldt River to store 179,000 acre-feet of water for irrigation, assuring future prosperity. The City of Lovelock is the county seat and is situated in the midst of the Valley. Is a fine little city with good schools, fine mountain water and nice homes . . . The gold and silver mines of Pershing County have produced many millions of wealth. The largest tungsten mine in America and the only dumortierite mine in the world are located in this county. Quicksilver, antimony, lead, pottery clays and polishing materials abound.

Elko County is the second largest in the State and third largest in the United States. It embraces an area equal to the combined states of Connecticut, Delaware, Rhode Island and New Jersey. It is one of the richest agricultural counties in the nation, having several times ranked first in the nation in the value of its products. Formerly an important mining region with such camps as Tuscarora, Cornucopia, Midas, Sprucemont, Aura, Columbia, Mountain City and Jarbidge: at the present time, Mountain City is the boom mining town of Nevada. Its mineral production is still of considerable importance. In the Ruby Mountains, the largest and most rugged mountain mass in Nevada, can be found some of the finest scenery in the state. The livestock industry in Elko County includes cattle raising, sheep raising, as well as considerable production of thoroughbred horses. Elko, the county seat, is ideally located, being situated on two transcontinental railroads and one transcontinental highway. The population is approximately ten thousand, while the City of Elko slightly exceeds four thousand.

In Appreciation

Happy that our seemingly endless job has ended, we are left with nothing to do; nothing, that is, except to return to classes with assignments long past due. Difficulties certainly came our way,—film shortage left us unable to take any special sittings for Seniors or organizations,—man-power shortage left us without an editor,—and the coke shortage left us without refreshments during late night sessions. But, in handing out the E's for excellent work, we should like to express our sincerest gratitude to . . . Those many Reno merchants who gladly bought advertising space in Nevada's first war-time year-book . . . Tom Buckman and Bob Howard, our capable photographers . . . Bill Shipaugh and Harry Frost of Reno Printing Company, whose time, interest, and understanding made for an excellent book . . . Vern Lane of Nevada Engraving for the fine cuts and the lettering for the division pages . . . Dr. C. W. Johnson for three kodachromes on division pages . . . Lew Hymers for his life-like cartoons of students and faculty . . . Mr. Goodner for his fine portraits . . . Mrs. Conant who willingly took over the job of making sorority portraits . . . Sam Babcock and Molloy Cover Company for excellent covers . . . And, finally, the administration and student body for their patience when we assured them that the book would be out eventually.
